1 NH PFML Plan Overview

This Worker Guidebook provides information to workers who are enrolled in or interested in the NH PFML employer-sponsored group plan.

1.1. Introduction to NH PFML

NH Paid Family and Medical Leave (NH PFML) is a first-in-the-nation voluntary plan where NH employers and eligible NH workers can choose whether to purchase paid family and medical leave insurance. NH PFML insurance protects a worker's financial security by providing up to 60% wage replacement for up to six (6) weeks per year for absences from work for covered common life events.

NH PFML is a voluntary insurance program. Employers are not required to provide NH PFML insurance to their workers and workers are not required to enroll in or purchase NH PFML insurance. To be eligible for NH PFML insurance, you must work for an employer with a location in New Hampshire and be designated as working for a NH employer, which means that your employer reports your wages to the state of New Hampshire for unemployment purposes.

NH PFML is available to all NH employers and NH workers through MetLife, the state's PFML insurance partner. NH PFML insurance is available to workers by participating in their employer's NH PFML group plan or by enrolling in the individual NH PFML plan if their employer does not provide NH PFML or an equivalent plan.

For more information about the NH PFML individual plan, please refer to the NH PFML Worker Guidebook, Individual Plan¹.

2 Plan Design

2.1. Plan Overview

If your employer provides you with NH PFML insurance coverage, it will include:

- Paid Family and Paid Medical leave together in a single insurance policy
- 60% wage replacement benefits up to the Social Security wage cap for qualifying leave reasons
- Up to 6-weeks or up to 12-weeks of wage replacement benefits, depending on your employer's plan
- Leave that can be taken all at once or in partial days with a minimum of 4-hour increments.
- An elimination period of a single unpaid work week before benefits may be paid

2.2. Worker Eligibility

You are eligible for NH PFML insurance if you work for an employer with a location in New Hampshire and are designated as working for a NH employer, which means that your employer reports your wages to the state of New Hampshire for unemployment purposes.

You are not eligible for NH PFML insurance under the following circumstances:

- You do not work for an employer with a physical location in New Hampshire
- Your employer offers NH PFML or an equivalent plan
- You are covered under another PFML state plan

I am eligible for the NH PFML individual plan when:

- ✓ My employer has a physical location in New Hampshire
- ✓ I am designated as working for a NH employer
- ✓ My employer does not offer NH PFML insurance or have similar benefits for all the same qualifying life events

You may not be eligible for NH PFML insurance if:

- You are self-employed, a sole proprietor, or an independent contractor
- You are a remote worker and not designated as a NH worker or your employer does not have a physical location in New Hampshire

Eligibility will be verified by MetLife during the enrollment process.

If you have questions about eligibility, you are encouraged to talk with your employer or call the MetLife Customer Solution Center at 1.866.595.PFML (7365).

	DEFINITIONS
Employer means any individual or type of organization located in New Hampshire, which has in its employ one or more individual's performing services for it within the State.
Worker means a person performing services for any employer with a physical location in NH in exchange for wages under any contract of hire written or oral, express, or implied.

2.3. Qualifying Common Life Events

NH PFML insurance provides participating NH workers with 60% of their average weekly wage (up to the Social Security wage cap) for up to six (6) weeks or 12 weeks per year, depending on the employer's plan, if they cannot work due to these covered common life events:

Paid Family Leave	Paid Medical Leave
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• For a worker to bond with a child during the first year following birth or placement for adoption or fostering• For a worker to care for a family member with a serious health condition• Any qualifying urgent demand or need arising out of the fact that the worker's spouse, child, or parent is a covered military service member on covered active duty• For a worker to care for a covered military service member with a serious injury or illness if the eligible worker is the service member's spouse, child, parent or next of kin	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• A worker's own serious health condition when insured* disability coverage does not apply, including childbirth * Please contact MetLife for additional details on what qualifies as disability insurance.

Under NH PFML, a serious health condition is defined as:

- Conditions requiring inpatient care
- Incapacity for more than three (3) days with continuing treatment by a health care provider
- Incapacity relating to pregnancy or prenatal care
- Permanent or long-term incapacity
- Certain conditions requiring multiple treatment, and
- Chronic serious health conditions that may prevent a person from working for a minimum of four (4) hours, for example, a person with epilepsy may not be able to work due to an epileptic episode

2.4. Qualifying Family Members

The NH PFML insurance group plan defines the following as family members:

- Your child, including biological, adoptive, foster, or stepchild, legal ward, or child of a person standing in loco parentis who is under 18 years of age or 18 years of age or older and incapable of self-care because of a mental or physical disability
- Your child's spouse or domestic partner
- Your spouse or a domestic partner
- Your parent, including biological, adoptive, foster, or stepparent, or legal guardian of the worker or the worker's spouse or domestic partner
- Your grandparent including biological, adoptive, foster, or step grandparent

For military exigency, next of kin and military caregiver definitions align with the Family Medical and Leave Act (FMLA).

2.5. Elimination Period

If applicable, you must meet an unpaid elimination period equivalent to one (1) work week once per benefit period before a claim may be paid.

A benefit period is defined as a:

- 12-month fixed period such as a calendar year, fiscal year, worker's first day of leave, or a
- 12-month rolling backwards period starting with the worker's first day of family or medical leave, during which the insured receives benefits

3 Enrollment and Premiums

Your employer's NH PFML group plan is funded through premiums paid to MetLife.

Your employer's funding plan may:

- Fund 100% of the NH PFML insurance premium cost on behalf of their workers
- Share the premium cost with their covered workers, or
- Pass the full premium cost to their covered workers

3.1. Enrolling in Your Employer's Plan

If your employer funds 100% of the NH PFML Insurance premium cost, you and your co-workers can be enrolled automatically in your employer's plan.

If your employer passes any of the premium cost on to their workers, you have the option to participate in your employer's plan and enroll. Enrollment would occur during your employer's open enrollment period.

If you choose not to participate in your employer's group plan, you will not be eligible to enroll in the NH PFML individual plan.

3.2. Paying the Premium

Your employer will remit premium payments to MetLife for their group plan.

Large employers must collect worker premium payments through payroll deductions. Small employers are not required to collect premium payments through payroll deductions but may do so through arrangements with MetLife.

Large employers are defined as having 50 or more NH workers

Small employers are defined as having less than 50 NH workers

Employers paying 100% of premium do not have to take payroll deductions from workers.

3.3. NH PFML Coverage when Changing Jobs

You are required to notify MetLife upon changing employers to update your employment information. If you change jobs, ask your new employer if they offer NH PFML insurance or equivalent benefits. If so, you may enroll in your new employer's NH PFML plan within 30 days of your hire date. MetLife will contact your new employer for employment verification, plan status, claims administration and/or premium payments.

If your new employer does not offer a NH PFML plan, or equivalent benefits, you may be eligible to enroll in the NH PFML individual plan within 60-days of termination from your previous employer.

4 NH PFML Claims and Benefits

4.1. Submitting a Claim for NH PFML Benefits

You are responsible for submitting a claim directly to MetLife for NH PFML insurance benefits, however, your employer and MetLife play key roles in processing your claim.

To submit a NH PFML claim:

- a. Call 1-866-595-PFML (7365)
- b. Visit the web at <https://pflclaim.com/nhclaim.php>
- c. Mail a paper claim form to NH PFML Claims, PO Box 822, Mt. Laurel, NJ 08054
- d. Fax a paper claim form to 1-800-728-7028

Your employer is obligated to address your questions, direct you to MetLife for assistance, and provide MetLife with your work schedule, wage and leave information, and other benefits information in support of processing your claim.

Both you and your employer will be notified of your claim decision and any next steps.

- You may submit a claim for more than one qualifying event within the benefit period.
- You can submit your NH PFML claim up to 30-days in advance but no later than 20 days from your first date of absence.

Detailed instructions for submitting a claim and additional information about the claims and appeal process can be found in the following resources: NH PFML Claims and Appeal Process² and the NH PFML Filing a Claim Quick Reference³.

You are encouraged to call the MetLife Customer Solution Center at 1.866.595.PFML (7365) with any questions.

4.1.1. Claims for Intermittent Leave

You may submit a claim for benefits that are taken intermittently with at least four (4) hours in each absence. The total amount of time must equal no more than six weeks of leave in a benefit period.

EXAMPLE

John needs time off to care for his mother who had a stroke. He will need intermittent leave to help with her recovery. His mother's physician signed a certification showing John may take intermittent leave 2 days a week for 3 months. MetLife would approve a claim for a full 3-month certification as follows: 2 days/week = 8 days/month x 3 months for a total of 24 days minus the first 7 days of leave are unpaid to meet the elimination period = 17 days of wage replacement benefit.

4.1.2. Claims for Benefits for Leave from Multiple Jobs

If you have NH PFML coverage for more than one job, you should contact MetLife to discuss the details of your leave and determine whether you will need to submit one or multiple claims.

4.2. Benefit Payment and Calculation

Benefit payments are issued weekly by mail or electronically. Electronic deposits can be requested by contacting the MetLife Customer Solutions Center at 866-595 PFML (7365).

³ <https://www.paidfamilymedicalleave.nh.gov/sites/g/files/ehbemt681/files/documents/nh-pfml-filing-a-claim-quick-reference.pdf>

The benefit amount you receive will vary based on your average weekly wage and will be calculated as of the first date of a qualifying leave.

Your Average weekly wage is determined by your earnings (including salaries, bonuses, commissions, etc.) in the base period.

A Base Period is the last four completed calendar quarters immediately preceding the first day of leave taken.

4.3. Roles and Responsibilities Regarding Claims

Below are the responsibilities expected of you, your employer, and MetLife when you intend to submit a claim for benefits. MetLife will stay connected to you and your employer during the claim process but understanding your tentative return to work date or intermittent leave schedule is critical to managing your claim properly.

8. Discuss next steps and set expectations, including what is needed to support benefit payments taken intermittent or reduced schedule leaves

4.4. Benefit Taxability

NH PFML makes no changes to existing federal and applicable state tax reporting requirements. NH PFML insurance benefits may be taxable at the federal level. They are not taxable at the state level, as NH does not have state income tax.

As the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has not yet provided taxation rules for paid family leave (PFL) or paid medical leave (PML), MetLife follows the insurance industry standard for NH PFML taxes. That is, the portion of the premium you pay for PML will be taxed, and the benefit you receive may not be taxed. For the PFL portion of the premium you pay, taxes may not be automatically withheld, but can be if you so choose.

If you choose to request voluntary tax withholding, you will need to submit a W-4S tax form to the MetLife claims team for taxes to be withheld. Please contact your employer for additional guidance on insurance benefit tax practices.

5 Your Employer's Responsibilities

Your employer has responsibilities regarding NH PFML, in accordance with the provisions of NH HB2 (Chapter 91, Laws of 2021) and its referenced RSAs, however, certain responsibilities are determined based on whether your employer is considered a large or small employer under NH PFML.

All employers are obligated to:

- Ask new hires if they have purchased individual NH PFML coverage to understand any payroll deductions that may be needed
- Address worker questions about the NH PFML program
- Direct workers to MetLife to file a claim
- Participate in the claims process by providing MetLife with work schedules, wage and leave information, and other benefits information in support of coordinating benefits
- Prevent discrimination or retaliation against any worker who has NH PFML individual plan coverage or when using their NH PFML benefits

5.1. Health Benefit Continuation

Large employers are required to continue to provide health insurance to their workers during leave; however, workers are responsible for any worker-shared costs associated with health insurance benefits. Small employers are not required to continue health insurance benefits but may choose to do so.

You are encouraged to discuss benefit continuation with your employer prior to taking leave.

Large employers are defined as having 50 or more NH workers

Small employers are defined as having less than 50 NH workers

5.2. Claims Support

You submit claims directly to MetLife to receive NH PFML benefits, however, your employer is required to provide MetLife with your work schedule, wage and leave information, and other benefits information to support the processing of your claim.

You are encouraged to discuss questions about your NH PFML coverage with your employer or call the MetLife Customer Solution Center at 1.866.595.PFML (7365).

5.3. Job Protection

Job restoration provisions under the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) may apply to employers that sponsor NH PFML insurance for their workers.

Workers are strongly encouraged to coordinate NH PFML leave with their employer and discuss the status of their position prior to taking leave.

6 Coordination with Other Benefits

NH PFML insurance is designed to coordinate with other types of leave and worker benefits in the following manner:

- If a worker qualifies and is receiving Short-Term Disability (STD)* or Long-Term Disability (LTD) benefits, they will not qualify for NH PFML insurance benefits for the same days absent
- If a worker is eligible to receive Workers' Compensation (WC), they will not qualify for NH PFML insurance benefits
- NH PFML insurance will run concurrently with federal FMLA when a worker is eligible for qualifying leave under both programs
- Any other paid benefit coordination is based on employer policy, NH statute and rules of the MetLife agreement

*Please contact MetLife for additional details on what qualifies for disability insurance.

Under the NH PFML individual plan, workers may be required to use employer-paid accrued leave before accessing their NH PFML insurance, except for the elimination period.

Workers may choose to 'top up' the NH PFML benefit with their remaining employer-paid accrued leave. MetLife will work with employers to coordinate dates of any available company leaves that directly overlap with NH PFML.

Further examples of benefit coordination with NH PFML might include:

Leave reason	NH PFML		Federal FMLA*	Company or Statutory
	NH PML	NH PFL
Worker has a serious health condition and needs to take time off work intermittently	Yes	No	Yes	Maybe (sick leave or medical leave)
Worker gives birth to a new child and needs to take time to recover from childbirth	Maybe (If no disability insurance)	No	Yes	STD
Worker has a serious health condition and needs continuous leave from work	Maybe (If no disability insurance)	No	Yes	STD-continuous or reduced leave schedule with partial disability No intermittent leave
Worker is injured at work	No	No	Yes	Workers' Compensation
Worker is taking leave to bond with a newborn, or fostering or adopting a child	No	Yes	Yes	Maybe (Parental/ Bonding Leave)
Worker needs to care for a grandparent or domestic partner with a serious health condition	No	Yes	No	Sick leave, Paid Time Off (PTO)
Worker needs to care for child, spouse, parent with a serious health condition	No	Yes	Yes	Sick leave, Paid Time Off (PTO)

*Federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) is applicable if the employer has 50 or more workers within a 75-mile radius and the worker has worked at minimum 1,250 hours and for 12 months for the employer.

6.1. How NH PFML Differs from FMLA

NH PFML does not alter or expand the protections and provisions under FMLA. FMLA allows workers to take up to 12 weeks of unpaid, job-protected time away from work to address their own or a family member's serious health condition, bonding with a new child, and for reasons related to a family member's military service.

FMLA defines family member as a parent, child, or spouse, however, NH PFML expands the definition of family to include domestic partners and grandparents.

Job protection when a worker takes leave under FMLA requires an employer to reinstate a worker when they return from leave to the same or an equivalent position. An equivalent position includes the same pay and work schedule as the previous position. When an employer or worker enrolls in a NH PFML insurance plan, the NH PFML claim will run concurrently to an FMLA claim and provide six (6) or twelve (12) weeks of wage replacement benefits to complement the worker's unpaid FMLA.

There could be situations where a worker qualifies for NH PFML wage replacement and does not qualify for leave under FMLA, or vice versa. Approval for a claim for FMLA or for NH PFML does not mean the other benefit is approved. Each must be reviewed individually.

EXAMPLES

A worker requests benefits to care for their domestic partner's child who is recovering from a broken bone. The worker would qualify for paid leave under NH PFML but would not qualify for federal FMLA.

A worker with a small company (less than 50 workers) has accrued wages and employment status that qualifies them for NH PFML benefits, but that worker has worked for their employer for less than three (3) months. In this situation, the worker may qualify for paid leave benefits under NH PFML but not federal FMLA and job protection from their employer.

6.2. How NH PFML Differs from NH Pregnancy Leave

NH PFML does not change or alter existing protections and requirements contained in the state's "Law Against Discrimination" (NH RSA 354-A). This law requires employers with at least six (6) workers to provide pregnancy disability leave to all workers. A worker who is temporarily unable to work due to pregnancy, childbirth, or related conditions, may take time off for as long as is they are disabled. When they can return to work, the worker must be restored to the same position or a comparable one, unless this is impossible or unreasonable for the employer due to business necessity.

NH PFML insurance plan benefits and NH pregnancy leaves should run concurrently if the worker does not have access to disability benefits. If a worker's period of disability ends before she exhausts NH PFML benefits, she could remain out on leave until she exhausts NH PFML benefits, as NH PFML benefits cover both a worker's serious health condition and bonding time with a child. If a worker's period of disability ends before she is eligible for NH PFML benefits, a worker could later take NH PFML when she becomes eligible for benefits if within a child's first year, as NH PFML benefits cover bonding time with a child.

For more information concerning NH Pregnancy Leave law see Pregnancy Discrimination information from the NH Commission for Human Rights.

6.3. How NH PFML Differs from Short-Term Disability

Although every policy is different, STD insurance* coverage typically provides wage replacement for illness or injury of the worker that meets the definition of disability. NH PFML insurance provides wage replacement for a worker's own serious health condition when disability insurance does not apply, including childbirth, and for several other qualifying events such as for child bonding due to birth, adoption or fostering, serious health condition(s) of a family member, qualifying need arising from military deployment or service or caring for a qualifying military service member.

NH PFML coverage is broader than STD but is limited to six (6) weeks and is shared with other qualifying reasons. This means that if NH PFML benefits are used to care for a family member, a worker could be without coverage for themselves. Therefore, NH PFML is not a replacement for STD, and STD is not a replacement for NH PFML. STD and NH PFML complement each other if a worker has a serious health condition.

*Please contact MetLife for additional details as to what qualifies for disability insurance.

EXAMPLE

A worker who is on leave for four (4) weeks due to out-patient surgery would likely be covered under STD. If the worker is required to leave work early to attend four (4) weeks of physical therapy (PT) before receiving their physician's approval to return to full time duty, the intermittent leave for PT would be covered under NH PFML, and not under STD.
